

Proactive & Protective Parenting in a Digital Age

Pornography has gained some serious momentum amongst our young people, and is likely set to continue in the years ahead. Pornography impacts our kids by shaping their understandings of sex, personal identity, as well as how they orient their online habits and relationships. This presentation will equip you with fresh insights into the ways in which young people can internalise pornographic messages and the ways it can confuse their understanding of healthy relationships, shape their attitudes, behaviours, expectations, brain and emotional development.

Don't miss this opportunity to learn how to have these important discussions in your family. Gain essential knowledge and skills, and be directed to resources to effectively respond. This 90-minute presentation is open to all parents of children and youth.
